The mission of the Department of Art is to equip students with the critical knowledge and creative skills necessary to initiate graduate study, a professional career in the visual arts or advanced study in one of the allied disciplines. Within the context of an integrated liberal arts education, we provide our majors in both studio and digital art challenging experiential learning opportunities. Through cycles of creation and critique, our majors develop the habits of mind necessary to integrate one's artistic production into a way of being in the world. Courses in studio art, digital media and visual studies offer instruction and critical feedback so as to foster the ability to think imaginatively, independently and in community—essential skills for future study or a career in the visual arts. For the general student, the Department of Art offers courses in such areas as art history, ceramics, digital media, drawing, painting, photography, printmaking, sculpture, video and visual studies.

Student Organizations

The Department of Art encourages interested students to join the Art Students Society and/or Ceramic Club, Linfield organizations which promote and support student involvement in the creative arts.
