¹ Must be completed with a grade of C- or higher.

² These seminars serve as capstone experiences in which majors build on their four-year course sequence and draw on both theory and methods training to 1) produce original thesis research on a topic of sociological and/or anthropological significance and 2) an internship or applied capstone project addressing a need in the broader community.

³ Under certain circumstances, a world area course may be substituted in place of studying abroad. Example courses include: IMPERIALISM IN LATIN AMERICA (SOAN 222), PEOPLES AND CULTURES OF NORTH AMERICA: THE NATIVE AMERICANS (SOAN 225), or LOVE, SEX, AND DEATH IN CHINESE CULTURE (SOAN 229).

⁴ CRIME, DEVIANCE, AND SOCIAL CONTROL (SOAN 201) and EDUCATION AND SOCIETY (SOAN 235) may not be counted toward the Anthropology major.

- oral and written skills for effective communication in a variety of contexts; and
- the ability to work both independently and cooperatively in application of sociological or anthropological ideas.

Oregon Preliminary Teaching Licensure in Social Studies

Students who are also seeking an Oregon Preliminary Teaching Licensure in Social Studies must also complete a Secondary Education major with Licensure. A teaching license endorsement in Social Studies also requires a course in ethnic studies. Students should consult with their Education advisor to be sure they are meeting licensure requirements for a Social Studies endorsement with this major. To best prepare for the Social Studies teaching license exam, the Education Department strongly encourages HIST (<http://catalog.linfield.edu/courses-az/hist/>) electives.

In order to complete the Secondary Education major with Licensure, students should begin taking education courses no later than their sophomore year. The student must be advised by faculty in both majors. Alternatively, students may complete a Teaching Certificate (<http://catalog.linfield.edu/programs-az/online-continuing-education/certificate-programs/secondary-education-teaching-certificate-occe/>) program at Linfield after degree completion. Students should seek advice from the Education Department Director if you are considering the post-graduation certificate option.

Student Learning Outcomes

- the ability to see how individual lives are connected with wider social and cultural processes and forces;
- fundamental understanding of the relationship between theory and method in the historical context of their discipline;
- the ability to access, organize, critically analyze, and produce knowledge about humans as social and cultural beings;
