Student Learning Outcomes

Through the pursuit of a major in communication arts, students will have opportunities to:

- Learn to create and deliver articulate, reasoned, and ethical messages as demonstrated by
 - a. employing critical thinking skills in the formation of arguments;
 - b. using competent verbal and nonverbal communication skills;
 - c. applying high ethical standards in their conduct as senders and receivers of messages.
- Gain an understanding of the general theory and practice of communication across public, relational, intercultural, political, and mediated contexts as demonstrated by

- a. explaining the nature and process of theoretical inquiry;
 - b. critically analyzing messages using a theoretical framework;
 - c. describing and using principles and techniques that may be employed to improve communication effectiveness.
- Explore the multicultural dimensions of communication by investigating communication practices across cultures as well as culture specific communication patterns as demonstrated by
 - a. explaining the contingent nature of cultural patterns and value orientations;
 - b. analyzing cultural differences as they affect and are affected by the process of communication.
 - Acquire the skills necessary to function as mindful, creative, and responsible citizens who grasp the ambiguity of diverse communication situations as demonstrated by
 - a. articulating an understanding of one's identity within a complex society;
 - b. employing engaged listening skills in a variety of social contexts;
 - c. explaining empathy and applying this concept in social interactions.

The goals are the same for students pursuing majors and minors with the recognition that minors will not attain the depth of study in the discipline afforded majors.
